Best Practices in Substance Use Treatment Engagement

The material in this training covers the stages of recovery and treatment compliance, as well as treatment planning for special populations. Treatment compliance can be a challenge for consumers, family members, clinicians, and the community as a whole. The purpose of this course is to provide an overview of strategies that can be used with individuals in recovery in order to increase the likelihood of treatment compliance and recovery.

Family Psychoeducation: Introduction to Evidence-Based Practices

There is increasing evidence that the inclusion of the consumer's families in the ongoing treatment and recovery process tends to achieve the best outcomes. This course presents an overview of family psychoeducation, an evidence-based intervention model that engages family members and other relevant community members as partners in the treatment process. The course is based on information contained in six Evidence-Based Practice Implementation Resource Kits developed by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) and its Center for Mental Health Services (CMHS).

Supporting Quality of Life for a Person with Developmental Disabilities

This course is meant to show support staff the critical role they can play in promoting quality of life and how they can get involved with this effort. Starting with a short history of disability services, it explains what quality of life is and why it is different from past ways of thinking. The course explores the core quality of life domains and how learners can use these domains and best practices as a basis for conversations and supports planning.
