Need to Know & Strengths

Things People Need to Know to Support Trey and Keep Him Healthy and Safe

Trey lives at the Treehouse group home. Trey attends Prevocational Services and Day Services Adult at The Sullivan Center. He goes to DSA on Mondays and Fridays and PV Tuesday through Thursday. He does not get along with Kim, a staff person at the DSA program. He needs to avoid her and she does not need to try and interact with him.

He really wants a job in his community. He wants to work somewhere that he will have lots of interaction with people. He will talk to anyone. He is very funny and likes to tell jokes and make people laugh. Make sure you listen to his jokes and do not ignore him. He loves attention and is very active.

He goes to visit Diane and Tom every other weekend. They usually go see Mattie too. He is extremely close to his family. Trey doesn't need a lot of assistance getting up and dressed for the day. Remind him to brush his teeth and take his medications. He can fix meals and snacks with assistance. Help him figure out how much of everything is needed and show him how to cook it. He does use the microwave. He needs assistance sorting and washing his clothes. He likes to fold them and put them up. He is a very clean person and makes sure everyone at the house does their chores so everything stays in order. He especially likes for his room to be clean and in order. He has lots of sports stuff in his room as he is an avid fan. He likes to watch Sports Center and talk about football and basketball.

If Trey is not included in activities or conversations, he tends to feel left out and will go to his room. Talk to him gently and get him to tell you a joke and he will come around and be okay.

He is allergic to peanuts and cannot eat anything associated with peanuts. Help him know if peanuts are in a dish or if peanut oil was used to cook something. He has an EpiPen in his backpack at all times. He can tell you how to use it. If Trey begins having trouble breathing and his throat starts to close up, stick the pen in Trey's left arm above the elbow. There is also an EpiPen kept in the kitchen at Treehouse.

Trey experiences anxiety at times and is prescribed Xanax to take as needed. If he gets anxious, he will become wring his hands, pace and/or talk in an overly loud voice. Try to talk to him first to see what the problem is. If his anxiety does not decrease, ask him if he thinks a Xanax would help. He administers his medications himself. Talk to him about what upset him and how you can fix it. Do not promise him anything you cannot deliver on because he will remember. Also, make sure you give him Coke and not Pepsi. He hates Pepsi products.

It is very important for Trey to follow his daily routine. Not following his routine makes him feel out of sorts and he will become anxious. Calm him down by getting him to tell you one of his jokes.

Trey also occasionally has seizures. He takes medication daily to prevent them and he hasn't had a seizure in 2 years. He needs to take his medication as prescribed by his physician. When Trey has a seizure, his body tenses up, he stares off into space and may begin drooling. The seizures usually last anywhere from 1 minute to 3 minutes. Get him to sit down and pat his face with a damp cloth until he comes out of the seizure. He will be very tired afterwards and will need to go lay down. There are no certain triggers for him to have a seizure. Staff and Diane keep a learning log to track the seizures. Make sure and call Diane and let her know he had a seizure. She likes to keep track of them to report to Dr. Grace when Trey sees him. He hasn't experienced a seizure in 2 years.

Certification Date: 10/1/15

It is very important to always have a bottle of water with Trey due to the fact that the Lamictal makes him thirsty. When he doesn't have water, he becomes anxious.

Remind Trey to put his glasses on when he is going to watch TV or play on the computer. He doesn't like his current glasses but he doesn't need to strain his eyes. He loves to watch Sports Center and the comedy network. When he gets on the computer, assist him in finding new jokes that he can tell. Once you tell him a joke 3 times, he knows it by heart. When walking places where there is uneven ground or stairs, gently take Trey by the arm and assist him. He will lose his footing and fall. If he falls, help him get up and make sure he is okay. If he has any scraps, use the First Aid Kit to clean and treat them.

Trey is a very trendy dresser and likes to look nice for the ladies. He loves to shop to buy new clothes and tends to lean toward the more expensive, name brand clothes. He needs assistance with budgeting his money so he doesn't overspend at the beginning of the month. It is very easy to negotiate buying things with Trey as long as you do not tell him that he doesn't need it or cannot have it.

Trey talks to Sophie on the phone on Sundays and Thursdays around 6:00pm. His roommates understand his routine of talking with Sophie at these times and will try to stay off the phone at those times.

Trey attends church on Sundays with his friend and neighbor, Leland. Leland picks him up and takes him to church. He and Leland go out to eat lunch after church on Sundays. On Wednesday nights, Susie picks him up for Bible study and choir practice. He sings in the choir and Susie always holds his hymnal for him. Staff helps him study his lesson and practice his hymns on Tuesday night after dinner.

Trey came home from Prevocational Services and put his backpack in his room. He came to kitchen and chose a snack (chips and coke). He went to his room to watch the Comedy Channel and called Sophie. Trey sat in the kitchen and talked to Mary as the meal was being prepared and set the table. He enjoyed telling Bob some of the jokes at supper. After supper, he and his roommates met to discuss what meals they would like to have next week and made a grocery list. Trey would like to go to Rooster's Friday night. Trey showered and got ready for bed.
